Traditional table football is simple and anyone can play! Human table football is the same, but on a human scale.

Created at the end of the 19th century, table football is a game that emerged either in Europe or the United States, depending on the historian, and which simulates a real football match, but on a table representing the pitch, where two teams compete.

Usually, four players take part, two per team, each in charge of manipulating two bars of blue or red "little players".

Table football is both a friendly pastime open to all and easy to learn, but it has also evolved into a team sport in its own right, with its own federations, professional players and world championships.
